

Transition Chesterfield

People like you and me, working towards a future where we are much less reliant on fossil fuels

Transition Chesterfield is a local community group aiming to make Chesterfield more resilient and sustainable. We want to create positive local solutions to the challenge of climate change.

What are we doing to get to a sustainable future?

Where people can get broken stuff repaired for free, reducing waste and helping people learn how to fix things.

An annual event selling a variety of seed potatoes and other vegetable seeds at low cost, to encourage people to grow their own food.

Where people bring any spare fruit, vegetable or flower seeds to swap for free, to get unusual and hard to find varieties or to extend the variety of vegetables grown.

Abundance

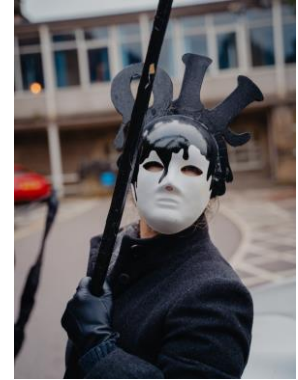

Chesterfield

A project to harvest unwanted fruit and distribute it free of charge or press into juice.

Climate campaigning

Lobbying for urgent action on climate change via planning applications, council and government policy, including divestment from fossil fuels.

PLASTIC FREE

SURFERS AGAINST SEWAGE

Supporting a campaign for a plastic-free Chesterfield.

An organic, community garden, now a separate charity, providing opportunities for people of all ages and abilities to grow food and develop a sense of community.

We support:

Renewable energy • More energy efficient homes and buildings • Better public transport • More walking and cycling • Less waste • Re-use and repair • Less meat and dairy products • Organic, local food • Local industries serving local markets • Less plastics, fertilisers and other oil-intensive goods • Re-learning skills • Working together.

Help us to make our town a better place to live.
